GETTING STARTED
FAQs

Is the program only for studying Utah history?
No. NHD Utah serves students in any year of the social studies curriculum, including Utah Studies, US History I and II, World Geography, and World History. Students may work on historical topics from any part of the world, from ancient history to recent history.

Who can participate?
Any student in grades 4-12. We serve public, private, parochial, charter, online, or home schools.

Can a student participate if their school/teacher does not?
Yes. Students may complete a project and enter their local regional competition on their own. No teacher is necessary to compete as an independent student.

What does it cost?
It’s FREE! There is no registration fee for regional or state competitions in Utah.

Where can I find NHD and NHD Utah on the web?
National History Day: https://www.nhd.org
NHD Utah: https://history.utah.gov/utah-history-day/

How can I connect with NHD Utah?

HISTORY DAY ROADMAP

STEP 1: CHOOSE YOUR TOPIC
• Be clear on how your topic connects to the Annual Theme.
• Make sure your topic is historical.
• Choose a topic that interests you!

STEP 2: DO YOUR RESEARCH
• Remember, historians are like detectives who discover the past.
• Start by finding at least 5 secondary sources. Read up on your topic using credible secondary sources before you start searching for primary sources. Look for articles and books that were created by experts. Evaluate every website you use.
• Find at least 10 primary sources on your topic. For some topics you can find hundreds of primary sources, so find as many as you can.
• Use a variety of sources. Historians don’t just rely on the internet. They use actual books and articles, interviews, historic newspapers and magazines, letters, diaries, photos, maps, paintings, video clips, advertising, propaganda, laws, court cases, etc.
• Conduct balanced research. Investigate various points of view, understand all sides of an issue, explore conflicts and debates.
• Dig deeper! Interview someone who was there. Find more sources.
• Track your sources as you go.

STEP 3: ANALYZE AND SYNTHESIZE
• Analyze your sources and think about what the sources show.
• Consider the ways your topic relates to the theme.
• Summarize the historical context. What events led up to your topic? How does your topic relate to the political, social, cultural circumstances of the time?
• Identify significance. What changed? What were the short-term and long-term consequences? Why does this matter?
• Draw conclusions based upon the historical evidence you have found.

STEP 4: CREATE YOUR PROJECT
• Start with a strong thesis statement.
• Explain what happened. Who, what, where, when, why, how?
• Discuss context, change over time, annual theme, and significance.
• Re-check the NHD Rule Book.
• Write your Process Paper and create a Title Page.
• Make your Annotated Bibliography.

<td>I used a wide variety of credible secondary and primary sources in my research. I used different types of secondary and primary sources. I did not rely on Wikipedia as a secondary source.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Historical Context</td>
<td>The primary sources in my project form the evidence for my argument. I analyze the primary sources. They are more than simple decorations.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Multiple Perspectives</td>
<td>I discuss the relevant historical context for my topic, setting the stage so that my project shows change over time.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Primary Sources</td>
<td>I used sources that have different perspectives on my topic. My project explores the different sides of the story.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Historical Accuracy</td>
<td>The information in my project is true and factual to the best of my knowledge. I rely on credible sources of information. I do not rely on opinion.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Significance in History</td>
<td>I discuss the short-term and long-term outcomes of my topic. I explain how my topic changed history, and why it matters.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Voice</td>
<td>I use my own voice to present the information in my project. My ideas, analysis, and argument are presented in my own words.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clarity of Presentation</td>
<td>My project uses writing, multimedia, performance, web design, and/or art creatively to present my findings. My project and all written materials are clear, easy to read/view and understand. The organization of information in my project is logical. I have corrected spelling and grammar errors in my written materials. Technical elements of my project are executed to the best of my ability.</td>

THEME & TOPIC
ANNUAL THEME

Communication in History: The Key to Understanding

As you explore how your topic relates to the theme, remember to look for both communication and understanding.

The purpose of the communication is just as important as the type of communication and the form it takes. What was the author’s message? What was the goal? How did they achieve it? Then, examine the outcomes to identify understanding. What was the result of the communication? What did people understand or misunderstand? What were the short-term and long-term effects?

The act of communicating with other people, communities, or nations is often taken for granted… In order to understand, we need to know what is motivating people to talk, write, and communicate with each other in the first place. (2021 NHD Theme Narrative)

Tips for Choosing Your Topic:

- Choose something that interests you. Everything has a history! You can consider social, cultural, political, technology, science, sports, arts, ideas, culture, heritage, and more.
- U.S., World, and Utah history topics are all welcome.
- Your topic must be historical. If you have a current event in mind, look for its roots.
- Be sure you can connect your topic to the annual theme.
UTAH HISTORY TOPIC IDEAS

Why consider a Utah topic?

• Explore the history that shaped your community.
• Investigate a local angle that connects to national or world events.
• Consult Utah History To Go for introductory articles on many of these topics.
• Look for primary sources online at the Utah History Research Center.
• Click on hyperlinked topics to find credible secondary sources in the Utah Historical Quarterly or primary source sets from the Utah Division of State History.
• You could win $500 at State! The top Utah history projects receive the Glen and Caroline Miner Prize for Utah History each year.

Who / what do you want to study?

Why are you interested in studying this person / event / idea?

How does your topic relate to the NHD theme for this year?

Describe why this person / event is significant. Give three clear reasons why this was important to history at a local, state, national, or international level:

3.

Why is this important enough for you to research and present? Convince me.
DO YOUR RESEARCH
PRIMARİY SOURCES – SECONDARY SOURCES
What’s the Difference?

Primary Sources

• Primary sources are materials that were created during, and are related to, the historical event.

• Primary sources are not limited to participants or eyewitnesses to an event.

• Materials that were created, written, or published during the time period you are studying are all primary sources on that topic.

• Ask: when was this source created?

• Interviews with people who participated or witnessed an event are primary sources.

Secondary Sources

• Secondary sources are created after an event. The writer is not an eyewitness or participant in the historical event.

• Most books, scholarly articles, websites, and encyclopedias are secondary sources.

• Secondary sources are important because they can provide an overview, background, chronology, details, and historical context on a topic.

• Secondary sources can show how different historians have drawn different conclusions about an event.

• Look for credible secondary sources written by experts on the topic.

PRO TIP! Look at the footnotes and bibliographies of secondary sources to discover where you can find primary sources.

TAKEAWAY: How can you tell whether a source is primary or secondary?
HISTORY DAY RESEARCH STARTER

Sleuthing the Past

Good historians are like detectives – they investigate, search for evidence, and dig into records to find more sources. Then they piece together what happened based upon the evidence they find. For your History Day project, you’ll do essentially the same thing. Start by learning all you can from experts on your topic, then search for primary sources.

1. Start with credible secondary sources

A credible secondary source is written by an expert on the topic, preferably a historian. Secondary sources include articles from professional journals, articles from the internet, and books from the library.

Tips for finding good secondary sources:

- Search for articles at Utah’s Online Library (http://onlinelibrary.uen.org). Good article databases include Gale and EBSCO.
- Search for books at your local library. If your library does not have the book you want, you can usually request it from a partner library by placing a hold on the book.
- There are specialized historical journals on almost every topic (American history, Utah history, history of science, women’s history, and so on) that contain excellent secondary source articles.
- Look at the bottom of an online article for its citations, then go find those articles or books.
- Look for secondary sources that show different sides of the story.
- Wikipedia is not a credible secondary source, but its articles can help you find better sources to use.
- Ask – Who wrote this? Are they an expert? If not, don’t use it.

2. Read your secondary sources and record citation information

These sources should give you a good understanding of the events you are covering, including important dates, names, and facts. They should also explore the background events leading up to your topic, the historical context (the social, cultural, and political circumstances in that time and place), and the consequences or outcomes.

Take notes using a notebook, a Google Doc, or Noodle Tools. Write down sentences you might want to quote exactly as they are written. Use quotation marks to show they are quotes.

Record the citation information for each source using a History Day Source Tracker or Noodle Tools, and keep this information attached to your notes.
3. Search for primary sources

Primary sources are materials that were created at that time in history. They include eyewitness accounts, newspaper and magazine articles, letters, diaries, books, government records, court cases, laws, photographs, paintings, drawings, maps, images, artifacts, clothing, tools, and objects. Interviews with people who were involved in the historical event are primary sources – these are called oral histories.

Primary sources are usually kept in archives, special collections, and libraries. Their digital collections are available online, and they have even more resources at their location.

4. Analyze your sources

Examine each source and ask questions such as...

- Who created this? When did they create it? Who was able to read or see it?
- Why was it created? What was its purpose?
- What does the image show? What does the document say?
- What is the perspective? (Example: is it proslavery or antislavery?)
- Is there something missing? What questions do you have after examining this artifact? How can you answer your questions?
- Compare/contrast. Does it agree with other primary sources or disagree? If so, why?

Take notes and record the citation information for each source as you go.

5. Balance your research

- Find and use sources that show differing perspectives.
- Use a variety of types of sources, not just one or two.
- Use books as well as websites.

6. Keep digging!

Research builds its own momentum. When you find a lead, chase it down. Do your sources make you wonder about something? See if you can uncover an answer by doing more research.

PRO TIP!

Go to the Library of Congress or DocsTeach and search for primary source sets on your topic.

| ✓ | SECONDARY SOURCES
Start with Five
For most topics you will need more than five secondary sources! Use these first five sources to gain a good understanding of your topic and its historical context. Then continue building your bibliography with more research and more sources. |
|   | HISTORIC IMAGES
Worth a Thousand Words
Photographs, paintings, drawings, maps, advertisements, posters, illustrations, or other images created at the time of your topic are primary sources. |
|   | PRIMARY SOURCE QUOTES
In Their Own Words
Quotes from people who experienced an event are primary sources. Write down the quote exactly as it is written. Use quotation marks. |
|   | SECONDARY SOURCE QUOTES
And Now a Word from the Experts
Quotes from experts on a topic are secondary sources. Write down the quote exactly as it is written. Use quotation marks. |
|   | MULTIMEDIA
Video & Audio
Historic television or film clips, audio recordings, music, or interviews are primary sources. Recorded interviews with experts are secondary sources. |
|   | ARTIFACTS
Historic objects (clothing, flags, tools, equipment, toys, etc.) are primary sources. When considering artifacts to include in your project, remember that hazardous materials are prohibited. NO WEAPONS (real, toy, replicas, or models). |

PULL THE PLUG ON PLAGIARISM

Play on Quizlet:
https://quizlet.com/512502609/pull-the-plug-on-plagiarism-flash-cards/?x=1jqt

1. Citations show readers which words and ideas in my project were created by other people. True or False?
2. Plagiarism is:
   A: Creating my own images to use in my paper.
   B: Using someone else's words or ideas without giving them credit.
   C: Teachers care only that I turn in my paper on time, not that I plagiarize.
   D: Writing my project in my own words.
3. If I summarize someone else's ideas in my project, I must cite them in my bibliography. True or False?
4. I can use exact sentences from a source without placing quote marks around them. True or False?
5. I paste a website's text directly into my project without enclosing it in quotation marks. Plagiarism or Not Plagiarism?
6. It is my idea that I write. Plagiarism or Not Plagiarism?
7. When using information from a secondary source in my project it is better to:
   A: Paste long block quotes from the source into my project.
   B: Summarize the information in my own words.
8. Changing a few words in the author's text avoids plagiarism. True or False?
9. When quoting in my project, I should:
   A: Quote the whole two-page article.
   B: Make one word a synonym to avoid needing quote marks.
   C: Choose the most important 1-2 sentences to quote.
   D: Change a few words to avoid needing a citation.
10. I use quotation marks and a citation to avoid plagiarism when quoting another person. True or False?
11. This is plagiarism: "Rockwell was one of the territory's earliest lawmen..." (Schindler, 1). True or False?
12. When you take notes in your own words, you should still keep track of your sources. True or False?
13. Which of these are good ideas to avoid plagiarism?
   A: Do not cut and paste from the internet.
   B: Write your project in your own words.
   C: Record the citation info for each source in your bibliography.
   D: All of the above.
14. Internal citations accompany your bibliography. They can be:
   A: Footnotes: numbered citations that appear in the page footer.
   B: Endnotes: numbered citations that appear in a list at the end of your paper.
   C: Parenthetical: (author, page number) placed at the end of the sentence.
   D: Any of the above.
15. I can "pull the plug" on plagiarism by...
   A: Copying and pasting into my project.
   B: Stealing just half of the author's sentence.
   C: Using quote marks and citations when I use someone else's words.
   D: Putting information from Wikipedia in my project with no citation.

THE ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY

- The Annotated Bibliography is how you show your work – what sources you used and where you found them. It gives the information necessary for others to look up your sources and verify your research.

- Citation Style: Choose from MLA (Modern Language Association) or Chicago Manual of Style. Use it consistently on all citations.

- Title: Annotated Bibliography

- Two Sections: List Primary Sources first, then Secondary Sources.

- Subdivide: Group types of sources within each section: Articles, Books, Interviews, Photos, Websites, other categories as needed.

- Alphabetize: List the sources alphabetically within each subsection.

- Annotations
  - Each source should have an annotation.
  - Annotations must explain how you used the source, how it helped you understand your topic.
  - If a source could be considered both primary and secondary, list it one time only and use the annotation to explain why you have classified it.
  - Bundle photos or other materials from the same collection in a single citation.
  - The Annotated Bibliography is not included in the word count.

- Track your sources as you go: Use a system to keep track of citation information as you do your research.
SAMPLE ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY

MLA Style

- Imitate the way commas, periods, quote marks, colons, italics, brackets, etc. are used.
- Format with a 0.5” hanging indent. Blank line between each citation.
- Sort the citations alphabetically by author within each category.
- Primary Sources should appear first.
- You may choose to subdivide these sections into categories based on the type of source, as shown in the example here.

PRIMARY SOURCES

Articles

This article is lengthy, discussing insights into John Browning’s life in Ogden. The best information described the results of the testing of the BAR. The Washington D.C. testing location had high-ranking military leaders from many countries; all 300 people present agreeing that it was “the best machine gun in the world.”

This newspaper article from the The Sun helped me understand Browning’s early knowledge of gun making and Browning’s presence in Europe; guns in Europe are called “Brownings.” I found it valuable to learn more about Browning’s influence internationally.

Images

This image depicts men holding weapons in front of a store with a sign reading “J.M. Browning & Bros.” While I am not sure if John Browning is actually present in the photo, the scene provides context about gunsmithing in Ogden and represents the success Browning found in manufacturing weapons in addition to retailing other goods. I used this photo in my exhibit.
Letters
John M. Browning Firearms Museum Collections.

This letter describes an agreement between Browning and another company for royalties for a certain firearm model. I learned more about the relationship between Browning and the Ordnance Department of the U.S. Army and the letter provided insight about war manufacturing that helped to guide my research.

SECONDARY SOURCES

Books

This is almost 700 pages of information about machine guns; one chapter is dedicated to John Browning. The source has a 1917 letter of appreciation from Newton Baker, Secretary of War, describing Browning's contribution to the U.S. military, particularly the financial generosity during critical war times.

Videos

This documentary encompasses John Browning's background and contributions to gun technology. I was able to use the video's discussion about Ogden's position on the Overland Trail, and later on a major railway, to look into trade in the West. I also learned about how Browning's invention differed from other types of firearms.

Websites

This website provided information about the John M. Browning's patents and types of weapons, focusing on Browning's business impact. The website listed the sales volume of Browning’s company, which helped to support my thesis statement.

It is a reasoned conclusion that is supported by the evidence (information from primary sources) you discovered during your research. HISTORICAL CONTEXT
Sets the Stage

History doesn’t happen in a vacuum. Events, people, and ideas are indelibly shaped by the world around them – the political, social, intellectual, scientific, cultural, and economic realities of that time and place. Students need to show in their project how their topic fits within the historical context that surrounded it. Here are some ways to think about historical context:

Background Events – What were the events that led up to this topic? Example: How did the conclusion of World War II set the stage for the Cold War? How did the French and Indian War lay the foundation for the American Revolution?

Social Norms – What was the social environment like at the time? Example: Racism, segregation, and Jim Crow form the setting from which the Civil Rights Movement emerged. It’s also an important context for Jazz music, Jackie Robinson, and a host of other topics.

Intellectual Trends / Scientific Knowledge – How did experts understand this issue or question at the time? Example: What did scientists believe about disease transmission during the Flu Pandemic of 1918? How did Social Darwinism influence popular culture, or politics, during the early 20th Century?

Cultural Norms – What cultural beliefs were held by this community? Example: What behaviors were considered inappropriate for a man or a woman? What was the prevailing view of a woman’s aptitudes and role in this time and place? What was the prevailing view of a man’s aptitudes and role?

Political / Legal – What was happening in local, state, national, or international politics at the time? Example: How did state laws requiring literacy tests curtail Black peoples’ ability to vote?

Other Contexts – Can you identify other contexts that are relevant to your topic? Example: What contexts can help us understand the reasons that Japanese American citizens were sent to incarceration camps in the U.S. during WWII?

In many cases, your topic will center on a creative response, reaction, or attempt to change the prevailing circumstances of the time. A good understanding of the historical context will help you see and describe change over time, and to identify short- and long-term change.
Your project must show how your topic fits within the historical context that surrounded it. Circle one or more types of historical context that best fits your topic from the word bank. Write a summary of the context, then explain why it is relevant to your topic.

SIGNIFICANCE IN HISTORY
You need to do more than just tell us what happened; you need to explain why your topic matters. What changed? What didn’t change? Why is this important in history?

SHORT-TERM CHANGES

LONG-TERM CHANGES

THESIS & THEME CONNECTION

A thesis expresses the historical argument of your NHD project in 2-3 sentences. In much the same way that an attorney presents evidence to support a case in court, your historical argument must be based on evidence. The evidence comes from the primary and secondary sources you discovered during your research. A strong History Day thesis:

- Clearly identifies what your topic is
- Sets your topic in time and/or place
- Briefly summarizes your historical argument
- Makes at least one meaningful theme connection

Use these prompts to begin building your thesis statement.

YOUR TOPIC: Boil down your topic into one sentence or phrase.

_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

WHEN & WHERE: At a time when...

_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

THEME CONNECTIONS: How do you see Communication and Understanding in your topic?

_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

HISTORICAL ARGUMENT: This is your assessment of the evidence, not a repetition of facts.

Revise and strengthen your thesis as you find new information. A strong thesis evolves as you rethink what you've learned about your topic.
THESIS EXAMPLES

For the theme Revolution, Reaction, & Reform

At a time when Blacks in Mississippi were not allowed to vote, and Freedom Summer set the stage for revolutionary changes, Fannie Lou Hamer showed leadership by helping to found the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party in 1964 and giving a memorably passionate speech at the convention. Although there were early failures and it was an arduous journey, Hamer’s leadership helped result in the Civil Rights Act of 1965. Hamer’s leadership resulted in a legacy of voting and political empowerment for black Mississippians.

Beginning in 1517, Martin Luther sparked resistance against Roman Catholic religious practices, especially the sale of indulgences, corruption, and the emphasis on salvation through good works. Luther’s Reformation ignited a religious revolution, created a new sect of Christianity, and later brought change to the Roman Catholic Church.

Under the banner “Reform, Freedom, Law and Justice,” Emilio Zapata commanded revolutionary forces in southern Mexico to uplift agrarian peasants through land reform. Zapata’s role in the Mexican Revolution helped foster a new constitution in 1917. This was later used to redistribute property to the nation’s rural poor.

In response to the stock market crash of 1929, President Franklin D. Roosevelt initiated a revolutionary “New Deal.” This government reaction brought reform to the U.S. banking system and helped get Americans back to work. Roosevelt’s goal of restoring economic stability would go unmet, however, until the country mobilized for war.

Following World War I, Adolph Hitler blamed Germany’s hardships on the country’s Jewish population, fostering a genocide later known as the Holocaust. International reaction to the atrocities of World War II led to a reform of the Geneva Convention in 1949 to include the protection of civilian persons in times of war. The Fourth Geneva Convention laid the groundwork for international humanitarian law and is used to regulate and enforce wartime crimes even today.

Beginning in 1944, Dr. Norman Borlaug conducted research surrounding disease-resistant wheat varieties. His successes in agricultural reform sparked the Green Revolution in several developing nations then struggling with starvation. Reaction to Borlaug’s work has been mixed as the farming practices have accomplished higher yields while also undermining small-scale farms and presenting negative environmental impacts.

</tr>
<tr>
<td>Source credits:</td>
<td>A source credit tells readers where you found an image or quote. It does not include the URL. It looks like this: (Rachel Carson, 1963, Library of Congress).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Guidelines for quoting:</td>
<td>DO use primary source quotes to present the historical evidence that informs your historical argument. DON’T use secondary source quotes to “get around” the word limit. Be selective. Quoting one or two powerful sentences is much more effective than copy-and-pasting the entire paragraph.</td>
